

2010 VOLUNTEER SERVICE DAYS

GARLIC MUSTARD PULLS

Garlic mustard aggressively out-competes native species in the understory of forests and woodlands. The plant begins growth in early spring and ends later in the season than most native species. As a result, garlic mustard shades out native wildflowers and out-competes native seedlings. This spring we continue our battle!

RIVER CLEANUP

Lend a hand with other volunteers during this fifth annual river cleanup near the Mustill Store and Towpath Trail. Be prepared for a moderate to strenuous work project, and dress appropriately: waterproof boots, long pants, work gloves and sunscreen. Bring a snack and water. Children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult.

Registration is required: dday@summitmetroparks.org, 330-865-8047
